

Dr. John Hayes welcomed as Director and Faculty Physician at MCW-Prevea Family Medicine Residency Program in Green Bay

GREEN BAY, Wis. – The Medical College of Wisconsin (MCW)-Prevea Family Medicine Residency Program in Green Bay is pleased to welcome Dr. John Hayes, a board-certified family medicine and addiction medicine physician, as its newest Residency Program Director and Faculty Physician.

Dr. Hayes earned his medical degree from Midwestern University, Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine; completed residency at Northwestern McGaw Family Medicine Residency; and is certified by the American Board of Family Medicine, American Board of Preventive Medicine (Addiction Medicine), and American Academy of HIV Medicine.

“I am honored to lead the incredible team of residency physicians at the MCW-Prevea Family Medicine Residency Program in Green Bay, which is now in its fourth year of serving the Green Bay community,” said Dr. Hayes.

Established in 2021, the MCW-Prevea Family Medicine Residency Program is the first family medicine physician residency program in Green Bay. The program is for physicians who have completed medical school and are interested in the field of family medicine. Since the creation of the program, Prevea and MCW have welcomed 14 resident physicians, preparing them to be well equipped to take care of patients in settings including rural or urban, multi-specialty or solo practice, inpatient, outpatient, obstetrics, urgent/emergent care and academic or private practice.

In addition to his role as Residency Program Director, Dr. Hayes also serves as a Residency Faculty Physician at the residency program, mentoring resident physicians and providing care to patients. His key services include routine care for children, adults and the elderly; preventative medicine; medication management; substance use disorder treatment; chronic pain management; HIV treatment; hepatitis C treatment; complex chronic disease management; women’s care; pregnancy care and delivery; mental health treatment; minor office procedures and osteopathic manipulation.

“I almost always work with the resident physicians, which means my patients can expect to work with two doctors,” said Dr. Hayes. “They will not only receive expert level care from myself, but they’ll also be cared for by eager learners - resident physicians who have just received the latest education and training.”

The full spectrum family medicine residency training program, located at the Prevea Shawano Avenue Health Center, 1727 Shawano Ave., Green Bay, gives resident physicians the opportunity to provide patients a range of primary care services under the guidance of experienced physicians. They also provide care and gain experience at additional Prevea health centers and Prevea’s hospital partners, including HSHS St. Vincent Hospital, HSHS St. Vincent Children’s Hospital and HSHS St. Mary’s Hospital Medical Center in Green Bay.

“The MCW-Prevea Family Medicine Residency Program is specifically designed to bring family medicine physicians to the Green Bay region,” said Dr. Hayes. “By bringing up-and-coming physicians to the region, we’re creating more access to appointments for our patients and providing them with the opportunity to see a family medicine physician quickly.”
