

Member Spotlight – Sadoff Iron & Metal Company/E-Recycling & Data Destruction

Environmental responsibility is a fundamental point in everyday life, and scrap metal recycling plays a significant role in protecting our environment. Sadoff Iron & Metal Company is the primary company for both scrap metal recycling and electronic recycling. Sadoff is a third-generation company that just celebrated 75 years in business that started as Block Salvage Company in 1947. Growing to what it is today, including nine locations in Wisconsin and Nebraska, Sadoff does business in more than 40 states and exports to multiple countries.

Sadoff Iron & Metal Company specializes in foundry supply for raw materials, stainless steel scrap metals, and cast-iron scrap metal. It is a full-service processing company that obtains materials from all manufacturing industries and the general public. Along with acquiring and selling materials, Sadoff does the heavy lifting and management of the scrap metals by processing and packaging the materials to ship to customers for recycling purposes and making new products.

Additionally, Sadoff E-Recycling & Data Destruction provides certified and secure electronic recycling services and data destruction. Sadoff accepts old TVs, monitors, cell phones, AV equipment, and computer towers. E-recycling batteries, tablets, game consoles, and printers helps the environment and ensures the security of important data. Sadoff E-Recycling & Data Destruction also specializes in assisting companies with environmental, social, and corporate governance (ESG) reporting, by providing data to help people compose that report.

Sadoff E-Recycling & Data Destruction focuses on institutional businesses like healthcare facilities and banks. To its customers' benefit, Sadoff places collection containers at or near facilities and businesses that would use them the most. Iron & Metal clients are mainly from the manufacturing sector, steel mills, and foundries. Additionally, Sadoff offers scrap management programs that not only make the planet greener but makes the customer some 'green' as well.

Jason Lasky, Executive Vice President of Sadoff, states: "Taking scrap metals from the community and recycling them is a service to the community in itself."

Lasky explains that Sadoff stays involved in the community by supporting various nonprofit organizations, giving talks about the importance of scrap metal recycling at local schools, facilitating fundraising that helps local organizations raise money, and hosting recycling events throughout the year.

Sadoff stands out from others with its "Down to Earth" approach, combining environmental responsibility with easy-going, customer-focused attention. "Our reputation is based on transparency and customer service," Lasky explained. "Making things simple and comfortable, while boosting the customer's bottom line."

Sadoff Iron & Metal is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year with internal promotion due to the pandemic and finding organic ways to continue to share its story with communities. "We understand it's hard to make it this far, we arrived here by being proactive in operating the organization and insuring success for the long term," Lasky added.

To learn more about Sadoff Iron & Metal visit Sadoff.com.

To learn more about Sadoff E-Recycling & Data Destruction visit SadoffElectronicsRecycling.com.

CHAMBER EVENTS AT A GLANCE

Current Young Professionals - CYP Dine n' Develop – Making Connections in the Current Workplace

Wednesday, March 16, 4:00 p.m.

Join speaker Joe Palm and learn power tools for strengthening relationships both internally and externally and receive resources to support mental health.

Free for CYP members. $20 for nonmembers.

Current Young Professionals Current Connect

Tuesday, March 29, 5:30 p.m.

Join CYP ambassadors at Pizza Ranch – Green Bay East to learn how you can maximize your membership and get involved.

Free & open to all.

Greater Green Bay Made

Wednesday, March 30, 11 a.m.

Last chance to register for an opportunity to learn from industry-leader Louie Gentine II, CEO of Sargento Foods and see what local manufacturers have developed and make.

Single ticket: $35

Table of 10: $350

Power Networking Breakfast

Tuesday, April 5, 7:30 a.m.

Come out to the National Railroad Museum and introduce yourself to fellow Chamber members. Thank you to Peterson, Berk & Cross, S.C., for sponsoring and Staples for providing breakfast.

Free for members. $35 for nonmembers.

Current Young Professionals After 5 – WXYZ Bar at Aloft Hotel

Thursday, April 7, 5 p.m.

Join CYP for a casual social gathering with trivia at the WXYZ Bar inside the Aloft Hotel. Appetizers will be provided. Cash bar available, to those 21 and over.

Free for CYP members. $5 for guests.

Learn more about all events at greatergbc.org/events

JOB FAIR

Thursday, April 28, 2022, 3 to 7 p.m.

Reach the Prospective Talent You Need

The Greater Green Bay Chamber is pleased to host an in-person and virtual job fair! Exhibitors will get the chance to reach potential employees and talent while attendees can take the first step towards their next career and network with industry leaders.

Thursday, April 28
3 – 7 p.m.

Northeast Wisconsin Technical College

For more information, contact Mark Rahmlow at mrahmlow@grenergbc.org or 920.593.3419.

Learn More:

29th Annual Golden Apple Awards

Registration Now Open!

Wednesday, April 20
5 – 8:30 p.m.

Register
Here:

Registration for the 29th Annual Golden Apple Awards is open! Come celebrate the outstanding teachers and teams of teachers in Greater Green Bay. Help us honor this year's Golden Apple recipients with a formal dinner and awards ceremony at the Radisson Hotel & Conference Center.

DINE N' DEVELOP

Wednesday, April 27 | 4:30 p.m.
Heritage Hill State Park

Creating a Culture Where Everyone Feels They Belong

Join Current Young Professionals' Dine n' Develop this April with noteworthy speaker Alonzo Kelly!

Attendees will explore the impact of our experiences on our ability to form authentic partnerships and relationships in the workplace. Alonzo Kelly will teach the skills of Critical Thought and Crucial Conversation, along with Tools for Talking When the Stakes are High.

Speaker:

Alonzo Kelly, Kelly Leadership Group

Register Now:

