The Boldt Group Welcomes Peter Cormier as Director of Sustainability

APPLETON, WIS. (OCT. 3, 2024 – Peter Cormier has joined The Boldt Group as Director of Sustainability.

In his new role, Cormier is championing the development and implementation of Boldt's sustainability strategy. This entails building the capacity of Boldt teams to implement sustainability programs in both enterprise-wide operations and construction projects. As part of the sustainability journey, he will have significant involvement in Boldt's environmental management system, regulatory compliance, sustainable construction initiatives and the organization's environmental, social and governance (ESG) strategies.

Cormier brings 20 years of environmental and sustainability experience to Boldt including leading teams on a variety of corporate sustainability programs across several manufacturing facilities and deployment of environmental capital infrastructure investments. He earned his bachelor's degree of applied science in engineering and master of business administration degree at the University of New Brunswick, Fredericton NB, Canada.

At Boldt, Cormier looks forward to heightening construction sustainable best practices and fostering environmental stewardship and due diligence throughout the organization. Cormier's reach extends to business operations in the Boldt Company's 18 locations and hundreds of project jobsites nationwide as well as The Boldt Group's other companies.

"This is an exciting time as we build out our environmental sustainability portfolio and help customers meet their sustainability goals through construction," said Cormier. "Our industry continues to evolve in opportunities to reduce environmental risks, enhance energy efficiencies, reduce waste and deliver projects in an environmentally-responsible manner."
